Peace Advocate Says War Fears Increase in Europe; Explains 3 U. S. 'Defenses'

Dr. John N. Sayre Describes Conditions
He Found During Summer Tour.

HIS SECOND TALK
HERE THIS YEAR

Reporting on his observations of conditions in Europe during a visit there last summer, Dr. John Nevil Sayre said in an address before a peace meeting in Christ Lutheran church Thursday evening that he found a more widespread and a deeper fear that very soon there will be another great war. Evidences of this fear were greater this year than on any of his previous visits, he said.

The speaker contended that such a war is not inevitable and listed as restraining forces the fear of the enormity of the conflict; the devastation that must be wrought in a modern conflict that will start in the air; the lack of economic resources on the part of most European nations at present; the fear of a communist uprising during or following the war and last, and not the least, the growth of pacifism.

Doctor Sayre listed three lines of defense against war that the United States can build to keep us out of a world conflict. The first is the exertion of our economic power now to prevent war in Europe; re-thinking our defense policies and adoption of economic and military neutrality laws, and, finally, the building of groups of men and women who "see the processes of war as so evil and so against the will of God that they pledge themselves never to support or sanction another war."

Observes German Life
Telling of his observations of conditions in Germany, the speaker stated that Germany fears attacks from other nations and that the people of that nation look upon Adolf Hitler as a man of peace and upon his armament policies as measures of defense against impending invasions. The first reason for the magnitude of the European fear of the next war is that it will start in the air and will rain destruction by gas and incendiary bombs on the very homes of the warring nations.
Doctor Sayre made the prediction that in his opinion another great war will not come for several years and he asserted, "In the meantime

3 MONTHS PASS; NO TOWN FIRES

Firemen Respond to Four Rural Calls, But None Here
Since July.

Three months ago today Gettysburg firemen answered their most recent fire alarm in the borough when flames did considerable damage at the borough garage and warehouse, Race Horse alley. Local firemen say that the three-month lapse between local alarms sets a record.

Since the last fire in the borough four calls have been answered by the local company—all of them in neighboring rural sections and all resulting in considerable damage.
On August 7, the firemen saved other buildings when the Bushman barn on the Littlestown road was destroyed while the wheat crop was being threshed; the night of August 12 the Rothaupt garage was destroyed along the Taneytown road;
August 24, flames destroyed Henry Gebhart's straw stack and firemen saved his building near Bonneauville, and the most recent call was answered last Friday when flames damaged St. Joseph's church in Bonneauville.

No alarms were received in the month of September. Only three calls were received in June and all were minor.

The blaze at the borough property was the only one reported in the month of July.

Semi-Annual Inspection of Service Conducted by Postmaster and Assistant.

The semi-annual inspection of rural routes out of the Gettysburg postoffice, recently completed by Postmaster C. A. Williams and his assistant, George P. Black, shows that route No. 5 lists the largest number of patrons and No. 1 the smallest number, while No. 3 is the longest of the five routes and No. 4 the shortest. Carrier No. 3 serves the greatest number of boxholders.
There is a total of 1,231 boxholders
served on the routes.

A list of the distances travelled,
boxholders listed and patrons served on each route follows:

Route No. 1, J. Clare Routson, 50.05 miles, 231 boxholders and 951
patrons.
Route No. 2, Charles E. Heitzel, 50.5 miles, 246 boxholders, and 1,133
patrons.
Route No. 3, Samuel D. Weikert, announced later this fall will fill the position permanently.

Burgess Arranges Hallowe'en Fete For Next Friday

Procession To Be Held Day
Early to Avoid Conflict
With Firemen's Dedication.

GETTYSBURG will have a Hallowe'en parade.

That announcement was made this morning by Burgess Wilbur J.
Stallsmith who said that he and members of the borough police force will arrange for a procession through the streets of the town next Friday evening, October 30, at 7 o'clock.

The parade is being arranged for Friday evening instead of Saturday because of the conflict with plans for a county firemen's parade, trial run and demonstration here Saturday afternoon and evening in connection with the dedication of Gettysburg's new fire engine expected next Friday.

The Hallowe'en marchers will form at the Meade school building and will march to band music. They will move from the school building east on Chambersburg street to center square, south on Baltimore street to Middle, east to Liberty, north to York street, west to center square, north to Water street and counter march to the square where the procession will disband.

Burgess Stallsmith said that he wants the children of the town to have a "good time" over Hallowe'en but that he has placed a ban on property damage. Soaping of home and automobile windows also has been "black-listed."

leave the town before they fall victim to the aerial bombardment. (Associ-

Washington street, was released from the county jail at noon today after a friend paid the fines and costs totalling $44 which had been assessed by Justice of the Peace
John H. Basehore after Harriel had

At the time of his arrest Wednes-

tence because he could not pay the fine and the costs.

X-Ray Shows Bone In Face Fractured

Elmer Tressler, Fairfield, submitted to an X-ray examination at the Annie M. Warner hospital this morning.

A fracture of a bone in the face
was revealed.
He was injured while working in a stone quarry last week.

HOSPITAL REPORT

Mrs. John Little, Littlestown, was discharged from the Annie M. Warner hospital today. No patients were admitted.

Unconfirmed reports broadcast by busy Spanish insurgent radio stations, meanwhile, said a "foreign steamer" unloading arms for the government at Cartagena, had been bombed and badly damaged by insurgent airplanes and that 50 soviet planes had arrived in Spanish government territory.

From other sources it was reported
the insurgent cruiser, Canarias, had been gravely damaged by Spanish government guns off Malaga.

Machine guns and fascist airplanes, in their first daytime raid on Madrid, swooped over the capital four times while terrified women ran through the streets.

Anti-aircraft guns kept up an incessant fire from the rooftops of the besieged city. The damage, however, was stated to be little and government leaders believed the repeated raids were intended merely to demoralize Madrid.

No attempt has been made to bomb the city proper, although one of two fighting planes raked the brick wall of a barracks with machine gun fire.

2 Coal Truckers, Without Slips, Fined

Two coal truck drivers were nabbed here this afternoon by Borough Officer Chester M. Spence on charges of hauling coal without weight slips.

Harold A. Burrhus, Hyattsville,
Maryland, was fined $5 and costs
by Justice of the Peace John C.
Shealer.

Similar disposition was made of the charge against Marlin Herman, Elizabethville R. D. 1.

The latter also paid $5 for a permit to peddle coal in the borough after police learned he had been soliciting sales without a permit.

Dr. Kuhlman's Estate Valued at $10,000

600 in personal property. There

JUDGES APPLE EXHIBITS

About 225 exhibits of a number of varieties of apples were being judged today at the annual Gettysburg national bank apple show that opened here Thursday.

about 40 exhibitors. J. L. Mecart-ney, of Pennsylvania State college, was in charge of judging the display, which he described as being of excellent quality.

Reports $100 Coat Stolen From Yard

Captain R. W. Burke, 239 West
Lincoln avenue, a subdistrict commander in the CCC, reported to state police today that a black broadcloth coat belonging to his wife had been stolen from a clothesline at the rear of the Burke home Tuesday.

The coat, valued at $100, was taken while Mrs. Burke was at home.

PARKED TRUCK HIT; BOY CUT

Donald Shulley, 16, Cashtown, Hurt; Driver Says Lights Blinded Him.

Donald Shulley, 16, Orrtanna, was injured when a truck and a car collided Thursday evening about 6:45 o'clock in Cashtown. The injured boy was treated by Dr. A. B.
Erlain, Cashtown, for numerous cuts
about the face.

Shulley was an occupant of a car
being driven east through Cashtown on the Lincoln highway by Robert C. Stonesifer, 18, Orrtanna, which struck the right rear corner of the body of a truck that had been driven off the south side of the highway by Floyd Kump, Cashtown.
The impact broke three windows on the right side of the Stonesifer car.
The damage was estimated at about $50.

Kump told Corporal J. G. Warren, of the local substation of the highway patrol, who investigated, that he had been driving west on the highway when he made a left turn into a private driveway near his home. A car that was parked in the driveway prevented Kump's truck from clearing the roadway
and the rear corner was struck.
Stonesifer said that he had been blinded by the lights of an approaching car and did not see the truck body protruding over the edge of the road.

Stonesifer and Mrs. Daisy Cornwell, Orrtanna, riding beside him on the front seat, escaped injury.
Donald Kuhn, Cashtown, took Shu-lley to Doctor Erlain's office for treatment. No charges were laid against either driver.

COUNTERFEIT BILLS

Counterfeit five dollar bills were passed on two Gettysburg merchants today and discovered when the businessmen made deposits at the Gettysburg national bank shortly before 3 o'clock this afternoon.

A general warning has been issued for clerks and merchants to be on the lookout for the spurious money, which is difficult for the average person to detect. The bills were easily identified as counterfeits at the bank.

BIDS ASKED FOR LOBBY CHANGES AT POST OFFICE

After Improvements
Parcel Post Will Be Handled Separately.

WORK TO COST
UNDER $2,000

At the direction of the post office department invitations for bids on proposed changes and improvements in window arrangement at the local post office were posted in the lobby of the federal building today by Postmaster C. A. Williams.
The bids will be opened here at 2 o'clock in the afternoon of Friday, November 27, when the two lowest bidders will be selected and their offers forwarded to Washington.

The bids are being asked for "labor, materials and equipment for alterations to present bay north of the stamp window (in the postoffice lobby) and the installation of a new sliding grille and a new counter." It was stated at the post office today that in all probability the changes will not be made until after the holiday rush is over.

Estimates on the cost of the changes are not available at present, but information from the department indicates that the work will cost "less than $2,000." The invitation stipulates that after the contract has been awarded work cannot begin until all materials have been assembled, so that the job may be completed as rapidly as possible and with as little inconvenience to office employees and patrons as possible.

The first window to the north of the present stamp window—a hinged sash seldom used except during Christmas rushes—will be removed and a sliding grille enclosing a section of opaque glass window will be placed there. A new metal-surfaced counter will be placed and other necessary structural changes will accompany this alteration.

It was explained today at the post office that the building was constructed before parcel post was handled here. At present parcel post service is handled at the general stamp window, often resulting in delays and difficulties when unwieldy packages are presented for mailing. When the changes are completed parcel post will be handled at the new window.

Present arrangement of furniture will have to be changed in the stamp and general delivery window section of the post office and some re-arrangement of clerk assignments will probably be necessary, for it is expected that one clerk will not be able to serve both the stamp and parcel post windows at the same time.

led "Accidental."

tennial avenue, Hanover, was found guilty of reckless driving and a fine of $10 and costs were imposed at a hearing before Justice of the Peace
John W. Dubs, Penn township, York county, Thursday afternoon. The fine and costs were paid under protest and Attorney Robert M. Laird, Hanover, who represented the defendant, indicated that the case will be appealed.

FRANCO - NAZI PACT REPORTED BACKED BY ROME

Recognition of Fascist Rule in Spain on Three - Point Program.

Paris, Oct. 23 (AP).—High diplomatic sources Thursday night said Italy had promised to back up Germany in a demand for a Franco-German pact.

These sources reported that the Italian foreign minister, Count Galeazzo Ciano, now in Berlin, and Konstantin von Neurath, German foreign minister, had agreed such a pact was necessary to keep the peace of Europe.

Want Britain To Guarantee It
The two foreign ministers were asserted further to have agreed that this bilateral pact should be guaranteed by Italy and Great Britain.

In this form, the pact would be similar to the old Locarno agreement for maintenance of peace in eastern Europe, except that Belgium would be left out, informed persons pointed out.

King Leopold's recent declaration of Belgium's new policy of "neutrality" and avoidance of foreign entanglements would be a basis for her non-inclusion in the agreement, it was said.

Accord on 3 Points Reported
Diplomatic sources also stated that agreement had been reached on three points.

1.—Germany and Italy would recognize the insurgent government in Spain.

2.—That they would adopt a common policy toward the League of Nations.

3.—That they would resolutely ban Russia from any future meetings of the Locarno powers.

(Associated Press Editor's Note)—In Berlin it was authoritatively reported that Germany and Italy had reached an accord on a united stand in the Spanish civil war.

Diplomatic sources said the question of a military or other alliance between Germany and Italy, as well as German recognition of Italian sovereignty over Ethiopia, had been left untouched in the Berlin conversation.

To Put France On Defensive

Sources close to the foreign office described the reported German plans for a Franco-German pact as an astute move to put France on defensive diplomatically.

"If France signed such a pact," said one official, "she would be unable to help Russia against Germany in accordance with their alliance."

"If she refused, she would be held up to the world by Germany as unwilling to make up their bloody quarrels."

Would Split France Forever

"Such an offer by Germany would further split France internally. The rightists would be for it in their hatred of Russia, and the leftists would fight for it tooth and nail, lest the Russian alliance suffer."

Informed sources declared such a pact, which Edouard Daladier turned down as premier in 1933, would free Germany's hands to attack Czechoslovakia and Russia, as France would be unable to aid those two nations, her allies, without laying herself open to attacks by Great Britain and Italy.

Franz von Papen, now German minister to Austria, proposed such a pact unsuccessfully when he was chancellor to Germany.

Peace Advocate Delivers Lecture

we must think what we as Christians and Americans can do to keep the United States and as much as possible of the South American continent out of war." He pointed to the next year or 15 months as a crucial period in determining whether the world shall have war or peace in years to come.

Economics Basic Cause

Speaking of the development of the first line of defense for this country—economic influence wielded in the interest of peace—the speaker declared that this nation cannot hope to be unaffected by another great war among nations that are economically inter-dependent. He listed economic problems as the real cause of the world war and the most important reason for European unrest today.

"The greatest threat to peace today does not come from the danger of conflict between fascism and communism, fascism and democracy or other political theories but from problems that arise from the need for food and clothing and employment for the people of the 'have-not nations,'" Doctor Sayre said. "Those like Japan, Italy and Germany that have large populations, and lack territory, resources, food and employment for their needs."

The audience was told that the immigration and tariff barriers that have been raised by the United States have aggravated conditions in these countries and urged the policy of concessions by the powerful and rich nations of the world to the "have-nots" at peace conferences to be held before instead of after the next war.

Legislation Important

The reciprocal trade agreements entered into recently by the United States and the currency agreements between France, England and the United States were pointed to as "long steps in the right direction."

Turning to a discussion of his proposed second line of defense, Doctor Sayre suggested a legislative program and a defense policy intended to keep this country out of war if it does come in Europe. "And that means a policy different from that followed from 1914 to 1917," he stated. "The $7,000,000,000 we loaned to the allied nations were certainly a great force drawing us into the conflict. We should demand of congress economic and financial neutrality laws that would make it a crime to ship munitions or war supplies abroad to any nation, whether we list the nation as the aggressor or the oppressed. Men who want to send food and other such necessities to warring nations should do so at their own risk and not with the protection of our army and navy."

Answering the theory of "preparedness is the best defense against war," Doctor Sayre pointed out that armaments are no protection against economic troubles and propaganda—the causes that involved us in 1917. Arming nations inevitably are drawn into an armament race that simply increases fear between nations, he said.

"It is insane, suicidal and utterly silly for this country to try to keep up with the extravagant pace set by the arming nations of Europe," he asserted as he concluded. "Millions in this country are thinking of the real purpose of our army and navy and coming to the conclusion that they should be used only to protect our shores and boundaries and not to engage in a foreign conflict or protect private interests abroad."

Wednesday's address was the second Doctor Sayre has delivered here this year under the auspices of the national peace campaign. He spoke here at a similar meeting in May. He was presented Wednesday evening by the Rev. Donald R. Heiges, member of the Gettysburg college faculty and of the planning committee that arranged Wednesday's gathering.

KILLS NAVAL CADET

Two other naval aviation cadets, G. C. Gibbs and J. L. Mueller, saved themselves by leaping in parachutes. Naval air station officials said they were pilots of the craft.

Hoganauer also took to his parachute but at so low an altitude that his body struck the water of a bayou before it opened. Gourley, trapped in the plane he had been riding, fell with it into a tree near the shore. He was taken to the Naval hospital.

JAMES COUZENS, U. S. SENATOR, DIES IN DETROIT

Early Associate of Henry Ford; In Office Since 1922.

Detroit, Oct. 23 (AP).—James Couzens, United States senator from Michigan, who as an office clerk joined Henry Ford at the turn of the century in founding the motor car company that grew in gigantic proportions, died in a hospital here after an operation late Thursday.

The 64-year-old independent republican whose senate career started in 1932, entered Harper hospital October 14 suffering from uremic poisoning.

Members of his immediate family, including his son, Mayor Frank Couzens, of Detroit, his wife, the former Margaret A. Manning, of Detroit, and his three daughters, Mrs. William R. Yaw, Mrs. W. Jefferies Chewning, and Betty Couzens, were at his bedside when death came.

A week ago Thursday the senator left the hospital to greet President Roosevelt, whose re-election he had termed "the most important matter confronting the nation." Following this statement, Couzens was defeated for renomination.

Mr. Roosevelt, on a campaign tour, offered to visit Couzens at the hospital, but Couzens left his bed, joined the executive at dinner aboard the special train, and stood with him at two platform appearances.

The senator returned to the hospital afterward. Since his left kidney was removed at Rochester, Minnesota, a year ago, his life had depended on proper functioning of the right organ. When an obstruction developed, Thursday's operation was decided upon.

Couzens was in the operating room for an hour, and drainage was established, but he died half an hour after returning to his room. He never regained consciousness.

Couzens' early association in Ford's motor enterprise, which prospered under what an associate described as Couzens' "hard-headed financial management," laid the basis for his personal fortune. He was one of the wealthiest men in the United States senate.

NOMINATED FOR HIGH D. A. R. POST

tional officers, including Mrs. William A. Beck, Summit, New Jersey, climaxed the fortieth annual convention's third day.

Mrs. Beck in an address, urged a national movement for the dedication of all youth to the nation's service and to higher ideals in government.

"Approved schools" were discussed at a breakfast gathering by Dr. Mary Martin Sloop, Crossmoor, South Carolina; Mrs. John Logan, state regent, South Carolina conference, and Mrs. Samuel Earle, Alabama.

Pittsburgh is favored for next year's convention, as eastern Pennsylvania has had it for two years. The convention ends today.

To train the rising generation for leadership in American democracy and to perpetuate "the principles of freedom, equality and justice," Mrs. William A. Becker, presidential general of the Daughters of the American Revolution, advocated Thursday a youth movement for America.

Mrs. Becker declared that in large measure the activities of the organization are being devoted to a comprehensive program to aid and encourage youth. Completing a coast-to-coast tour in which she urged every chapter to start a youth movement, Mrs. Becker said:

"Under patient, courageous and intelligent leadership, American youth will rally to the perpetuation of their country's blessings and a better life for all. Youth, aflame with zeal and ambition, awaits this leadership, eager and ready to carry on."

The Wrong Murderer

By HUGH CLEVELY

SYNOPSIS: Elsa Little suspects that Terence Mahony killed her uncle, and is charming him in order to get information out of him. In the next room, listening is Inspector Kennedy. But Elsa, beginning to believe Terence's story, while he is telling it, Terence is perfecting in his mind a plot that will capture and convict Ambrose Lawson, head of a kidnapping ring and murderer of Little. But Ruth Fraser, Elsa's friend, is also mixed up in the matter—and in danger.

Chapter 35
DECEIT WILL OUT
"Why did she tell that story about staying with a friend in the country?" asked Elsa.

She was frowning a little, as if puzzled. But she was no longer acting. Mahony's story had gripped her attention. Almost against her will, she was beginning to think he might be speaking the truth.

Terence went on: "Lee-Ramsden wouldn't believe that Ruth had been kidnapped. He suggested that yarn to her about staying with a friend in the country. I think he wanted to avoid a lot of fuss and bother with the police."

"And where is Ruth now?" asked Elsa.

"I don't know," replied Mahony. "I saw her for a moment this morning in her guardian's house, and I haven't seen or heard from her since."

While he was speaking there was a ring at the front door-bell. They heard the maid cross the hall and open the front door. A man's deep voice sounded in the hall.

"I want to speak to Inspector Kennedy at once," it said.

Mahony looked startled. Elsa went very pale. A frightened look came into her eyes, and she rose quickly from her seat. She did not want to look at Mahony, and somehow she could not look away from him.

For a long moment they stared at one another. Mahony's bewildered eyes asking a question which Elsa's eyes did not want to answer. The maid opened the drawing-room door, and they both looked towards the doorway.

Sergeant Dawkins entered. "Sorry to trouble you, Miss Little, but I've got to see Inspector Kennedy right away on very important business," he said in a matter-of-fact voice.

Elsa did not answer. She did not know what to say. She found it impossible, in Mahony's presence, to admit that Inspector Kennedy was in the house. There was an awkward, strained pause. Then another step sounded in the hall outside.

"What do you want, Dawkins?" asked Inspector Kennedy's voice from the doorway.

Mahony looked at Elsa, saw her white face and distressed air, and in a stunning shock of insight saw the whole plot. Elsa had betrayed him. She had fooled him. She had deliberately encouraged him to commit himself, knowing that Inspector Kennedy was listening to every word he said.

For a moment his mind fought desperately to discover some way in which it might appear that she had not fooled him, that the Inspector's presence was accidental, and not deliberate. But it was no good.

The facts were quite plain. He had been had for a mug. Well, that was that. It couldn't be helped now.

He smiled. He looked Elsa in the face and smiled quite amiably. It seemed to him the only thing that he could do in the circumstances.

Something in his smile affected Elsa strangely. She made a hesitating half-pace towards him. Her lower lip was trembling slightly, and her blue eyes looked very solemn. She looked as if she wanted him to comfort her.

"I... I'm sorry," she murmured indistinctly. "I... I'm very sorry for what I've done."

She spoke like a child confessing to some fault. Obviously she was sorry for what she had done. That struck Mahony as quite unreasonable. He bore her no particular grudge for giving him away to the police; that had been his own fault, for being mug enough to let her do it.

But that she should stand there all sad and sorrowful, irritated him slightly. Did she want him to forgive her, or something like that?

"Oh, that's all right," he said indifferently, as if nothing that she could do or feel could interest him greatly.

He took a cigaret from a box on a small table, lit it casually, and rose.

"I take it you were listening?" he said to Inspector Kennedy.

The Inspector nodded.

"Yes," he replied. "Well, Mahony, it seems that you were in the room when Mr. Little was murdered."

There was no use in denying that now. Mahony shrugged his shoulders.

"Yes. I was there."

"But he didn't murder my uncle," put in Elsa suddenly.

Everyone looked at her in surprise. Her face was flushed, and her eyes eager and pleading.

"I thought he did," she went on quickly. "That was why I arranged this... this trap. But somehow, while I was talking to him, I began to change my mind. He... he seemed to me to be telling the truth when he said he didn't kill my uncle. Oh, I do wish I'd never agreed to that horrible plan of letting you listen to what he said."

Tears were streaming down her cheeks. She turned to Mahony.

"I'm sorry, really I'm sorry," she said piteously. "I suppose you hate me for what I've done?"

"Not at all," said Mahony politely. Nor did he. He merely thought she was being stupid, like a woman who puts down a mouse-trap and then weeps when she catches a mouse in it. He thought she was making rather a lot of unnecessary fuss. Apart from that, he seemed to have no feelings about her whatever.

"What is it you want with me, Dawkins?" asked Inspector Kennedy.

The sergeant had been regarding this scene with eyes of wonder. Now he stepped forward with the air of a man carrying important news. He held out a letter.

"I'd like you to look at this letter, sir," he said. "While I was searching Mahony's rooms this evening, according to instructions, the postman delivered this for him. I opened it, and when I saw what it was about I thought I'd better bring it along to you right away."

Inspector Kennedy glanced through the letter, and an expression of satisfaction crossed his face. "You were quite right, Dawkins," he said, and then to Elsa: "We'll leave you now, Miss Little."

He turned to Mahony. "You come with us, Mahony," he said.

Elsa stood helplessly and watched them go. She felt utterly miserable. When they had gone she sank into a chair and cried for a long time.

A police car was waiting outside the house, and the Inspector motioned to Mahony to enter it. Mahony did so.

"Am I under arrest?" he asked.

Inspector Kennedy smiled. He had a cheerful air.

"Well, you ought to be," he said. "And you might be if I hadn't discovered that you were speaking the truth when you said you didn't know Miss Fraser had been to Pennyfields, or where she was."

"Besides, I'm hoping that if I leave you at liberty for a bit I may find out exactly what your game is. But I don't propose to let you go till we've got our hands on Miss Fraser and heard what she has to say. We're on our way to fetch her now."

He handed a letter to Mahony. "Perhaps you'd like to read this. It arrived for you this evening while Sergeant Dawkins was searching your room."

Mahony opened the letter and read it. It ran:

Dear Terence,

I'm writing this in a frantic hurry, and it will probably be all mixed up. I hope you'll understand it.

After you'd left the house, this morning I overheard my guardian telephoning to Lawson telling him everything you said. I tried to telephone to you, but couldn't get you, so I went off in my car to see Bassett. A man let me into the house, and while I was in it there was an awful fight upstairs, and when I went up to see what was happening I found a man had been killed. I got out of the house by the back door just as the police were coming in at the front, but I left my car outside the front door.

I don't know what to do, and I want to see you. I am sending you this letter, and I shall be waiting for you tonight in an empty house at number 518 St. John's Wood Road. Please come and see me as soon as you can.

Ruth.

"It will be interesting to hear Miss Fraser's story," said Inspector Kennedy.

"Yes," agreed Mahony absently.

Mahony wasn't exactly communicative at any time, and certainly he was less so than usual now. The fact was, he could not get the consideration of his own stupidity out of his mind.

He had been deceived beautifully by Lee-Ramsden. And when Lee-Ramsden had betrayed him, the old man had compounded the trick by leading him to doubt the loyalty of Ruth. Now, partly because of Mahony's fatal error, Ruth was in danger. More danger than Inspector Kennedy suspected.

Large Homecoming Crowd Expected To See Lehigh-Gettysburg Game

Greatly weakened by the loss of several stars due to injuries the Gettysburg college Bullets await the invasion of Lehigh university's powerful gridiron squad Saturday afternoon. The game, which will be a feature of the annual alumni homecoming celebration, will start at 2:30 o'clock.

Fresh from its surprising 7-6 decision over Penn State, Lehigh comes here determined to break a seven-year jinx. In that time Lehigh has lost five decisions to the Bullets and two games resulted in deadlocks.

Lehigh ranks a top-heavy favorite to down the Bullets. The entire visitors' lineup is made up of veteran material that has clicked in every game except one this season. The Engineers' lone defeat was at the hands of Dickinson but the downfall was the result of a considerable amount of fumbling.

Lehigh Moving Up

The rise of the Lehigh outfit in the football world after several seasons of mediocre play has earned it a host of fans, many of whom will trek here Saturday for the game. The brilliant 100-piece band of Lehigh will accompany the team and will perform before the game and during the half-time intermission.

The Bullets have undergone their stiffest workouts of the season during the past week. Coaches Bream and Beeson determined to put a well-groomed, fighting outfit on the field Saturday. Joe Superka, Bullet scoring ace, is definitely out of the game. The loss is a severe blow as Superka not only is the most consistent ground-gainer on the squad but also does the bulk of the punting, punting and extra point kicking. Fulmer will replace Superka in the backfield.

Gettysburg's lineup will consist of Serfass and Fish, ends; Walker and Hebert, tackles; Yunaska and Wagner, guards; O'Neill, center; Cook, Bucklen, Fulmer and Shadle, backs. Plans are being made to take care of the largest crowd in several years. Two-thirds of the permanent stands have been reserved, tickets for which may be purchased at the Eddie Landon in turn was said by aides to be preparing an address which would urge democrats to cross party lines and support him.

Traveling eastward on his final drive for the Presidency, Landon was directed by doctors to rest his throat for strenuous campaigning ahead which includes major addresses at Indianapolis Saturday night and in Philadelphia, Pittsburgh, New York and St. Louis next week.

The sore throat from which the candidate suffered hung on Thursday and a doctor boarded the train during an El Paso stop. After spraying Landon's throat the specialist advised a twenty-four-hour rest so the Kansan refrained from making rear platform talks and spent a good part of the day resting in his bedroom while traveling

FIFTEEN YEARS AGO

Church Wedding at Emmitsburg:
At a nuptial high mass performed in St. Joseph's church, Emmitsburg, Simon B. Stock, son of Mrs.
Sarah Stock, Emmitsburg, was married on Wednesday morning to Miss Margaret Favorite, daughter of Mrs. Mary G. Favorite, of Emmitsburg. Rev. Mark Stock, brother of the bridegroom, pastor of the St. Francis Xavier church, performed the ceremony. He was assisted by Rev. J. O. Hayden, pastor of St. Joseph's church.

During the ceremony Charles Stock, accompanied on the organ
by Miss Mary Ramer, sang "Ave Maria." Mrs. Norman Irvin, sister of the bride, was matron of honor, and Norman Irvin was Mr. Stock's best man. The ushers were Joseph A. Maguire Gettysburg, and Albert Seiffer, Emmitsburg.

Mr. and Mrs. Stock will reside in Harrisburg, where Mr. Stock is employed in the maintenance division of the State Highway Department.

Dorsey Rebert Married in York:
Minnie R. Haar, daughter of Edward Haar, of Abbotstown, and Dorsey Rebert, McKnightstown,
were married in York on Friday night at 8 o'clock, by Rev. O. P.
Schellhamer as his home. They were attended by the bride's sister and brother in law, Mr. and Mrs. H. B.
McCleary, near York. When they return from a wedding trip they will reside in Gettysburg. Mr. Re-bert is a member of the Albert Lentz post of the American Legion. He is one of the proprietors of the City Garage here.

New Bus to Hanover: Amos H.
Butt, of Chambersburg street, has placed a newly made body on his motor bus which plies between here and Hanover. The body, made by William Weikert, of McKnighttown, was placed upon the chassis of his former touring car. It contains four seats, each capable of holding five persons and is enclosed with an all weather top.

Post Auxiliary to Be Formed:
Arrangements were completed Monday evening at the regular meeting of the Albert Lentz post of the American Legion for the organization of the Woman's Auxiliary of the post. The Legion committee consists of Peter F. McCallion, Lloyd Hess and William Timmins.
Following are the signers of the petition for the auxiliary charter:

Mrs. Ralph Becker, Kathryn Deardorff, Anna H. Miller, Mrs.
Robert C. Miller, Mrs. Jacob I.
Mumper, Mrs. T. J. Winebrenner,
Ruth A. Smith, Caroline Blocher,
Mrs. Stella C. Hewitt, Martha C.
Dickson, Mildred P. Deardorff, Mrs.
H. H. Spangler, Mrs. Levi Diehl,
Mrs. C. S. Duncan and L. Meryl
Stauffer.

Altogether Most Successful Day
Was County's 1921 Little Fair: Altogether the most successful Farmers' Day ever staged in Gettysburg passed into history Thursday evening as the last strains of the Keystone orchestra died away at 11:30 o'clock and the throng of five hundred dancers who had braved the chilling wind started for their homes.

Eight thousand persons attended Adams county's miniature fair here and the streets were congested with a crowd that represented
every section of the district.

Without doubt the feature of the exhibit was the pig show, which was for the first time incorporated with Farmers' Day.

Open New Gas Station: A new gas and service station has been opened at the corner of York and Fifth streets by the Keystone Auto Gas and Oil Service Company of Pittsburgh. The station is equipped with sundry repair parts and contains a ladies' rest room. William Christman is in charge of the station.

Loses Finger Tip: Ada Register,
Breckenridge street, had the tip of her index finger cut off Tuesday at the silk throwing plant of the

J. H. and C. K. Eagle Silk Company, Buford street.

Personal: Miss Elsie Little, Chambersburg street, is visiting Mrs.
George Sachs, Harrisburg.

A party of High School Freshmen on Friday evening motored to the home of Miss Bernice Strausbaugh, near Orrtanna. The young folks prepared a delightful camp supper around a large fire.

Miss Strausbaugh had as her guests of honor Miss M. Priscilla Barbehenn, Kenneth Ehrhart and Roy Hamme, of Glenville.

The party was chaperoned by Miss Mary Barbehenn, Miss Dorothy Clarke, Harold Keck and Harold Creager.

Miss Blanche Lingg, New Oxford,
is spending the day with Miss Mary Miller, East Middle street.

the week-end in York.

ington, D. C., where they are being entertained by Major and Mrs. W.
R. Scott.

Mrs. C. Ross Shuman returned to Harrisburg with her father, H. F.
Graham, who has been visiting Mr.
and Mrs. Shuman, Baltimore street.

Mr. and Mrs. Martin Frankfurter, Germantown, are spending some time with Mr. and Mrs. Henry Scharf, of Hotel Gettysburg.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Stock and daughter, of Cleveland, Ohio, are spending several weeks with relatives here.

Mr. and Mrs. Ray Reed and little daughter have returned to their home in Harrisburg after spending several days with Mr. and Mrs.
Walter L. Reynolds, Chambersburg street.

Mrs. A. J. Neimeyer, Pasadena,
California, formerly Miss Jessie Monfort, of Gettysburg, is visiting her aunt, Miss Krise, Carlisle street.

where they will attend the meeting of the Woman's Missionary Society of the West Pennsylvania Synod.

AMUSEMENTS

STRAND THEATER

"Dick Foran, the 'singing cowboy,'
comes to the Strand theater Saturday in a new type of Western, one without a single cowboy, the First National picture, "Trailin' West."

It is set in the Civil war period when guerrilla warfare was still rampant in the west.

Foran sings two songs written for the production by M. K. Jerome and Jack Scholl. One is a ballad, "Moonlight Valley" and the other a stirring marching song, "Drums of Glory."

Pursang Often Aids in Clearing Complexion

Helps Build Red Blood Corpuscles and Tones Up Entire System

How do you know your skin can't be white and beautiful? Why take it for granted that you must look sallow and under-nourished? Perhaps you're simply run-down — as so many people are at this time of year — and need more iron in their blood. We recommend Pursang to you.

Pursang is the product of the McKesson Laboratories, famous in the manufacture of drugs and medicines for more than a century. It is a scientific preparation containing organic compounds of iron and copper. These important elements make Pursang an effective hematinic—a builder of hemoglobin—the substance which makes red blood corpuscles red. In addition, Pursang contains ingredients that stimulate appetite, make you enjoy eating more, and make your food worth more to you.

If lack of iron in your blood is dragging you down—making you feel an aching below par—get a bottle of Pursang today.

Parker Extradition Denied by Hoffman

Trenton, Oct. 23 (AP)—Extradition of Detective Ellis H. Parker and his son, Ellis, Jr., to Kings county, New York, to face indictments in the Paul H. Wendel kidnapping, was refused Thursday by Governor Harold Hoffman.
Indictment of the famed "country" detective by a federal grand jury in Newark made extradition to Brooklyn unnecessary, Hoffman said.
The governor, who once refused a request for extradition of the senior Parker, was asked by Governor Herbert H. Lehman, of New York, to reconsider his refusal. Although he reserved decision at a public hearing in August, Hoffman indicated he would not force the Parkers to go to Brooklyn.

He said at that time: "Certainly nothing has been presented to change my opinion. Ellis Parker, Sr., should not be extradited."
Of the 104 players on the Kansas State college freshman football team, 33 were team captains in their high school grid days.
Shoey Shoemaker, "Bama" sophomore, is a basketball guard and a baseball catcher.

Dixie Howell, assistant coach at Loyola of New Orleans, was an all-America halfback on the 1934 Alabama team that defeated Stanford in the Rose Bowl.

BALTIMORE UNION STOCK YARDS The supply of live stock yesterday included 1,715 cattle, but 1,240 of these arrived before the current session. Calves numbered around 250, hogs 1,100 and sheep around 300.

Cattle—There was marked improvement in the quality and condition of the steer run. Several loads of good grade medium weight and heavy grassers were offered. Cows were found a little more frequently than usual, while hogs and heifers were of rather small volume. A rather active trade developed on medium and good grade steers at prices which averaged around 16 1/2c to 17c above Monday's sales.

Some sales showing a little greater upturn. Lower grade steers sold rather slowly and about steady, real plain kinds reflecting a little weakness. A few heifers were found around steady, but some were without bids on mid-season rounders. Cows encountered a rather narrow demand and sold weak to 25 cents lower than on Monday and many cows were still unsold at this writing.

Stocker and feeder trade continued fairly active with the better kinds of feeders strong. Several loads of good grade slaughter steers, weighing 1,150-1,275 pounds sold at $8.25, while a load of heavies brought $8.30. The top was $8.60 for a load of good heavies scaling around 1,435 pounds. Numerous lots and loads of medium grade steers brought $7.25 to $7.50, while plain lots sold downward to $6, a few cullery steers selling on down to $4.50 and under. A few low grade light-weight heifers cashed at $5.50 to $5.80, a few medium grade heifers upward to $6.50. Several lots of low cutter and cutter cows brought $3.75 to $4.75. A few medium cows making $4.75 to $5.75, an occasional good best bull up to $6.25 and above. Many lots of medium and good feeder steers scaling upward to 1,000 pounds and above sold at $6.50 to $7.25, a few reaching $7.50. Plain lightweight stockers sold downward to $5.50 and below.

Calves—A fairly active and strong trade prevailed on scalers, with most of the better grades going at $10.50. Common and medium grades went at $7.50 to $8.50, while a few plain kinds reflecting a little weakness, sold at $5.50 to $6.50, occasional bids down to $4.50 and below.

Hogs—Rather slow action continued in the hog division, but prices held near a steady basis on most weights. Pigs continued in exceptionally narrow demand, with a few lots selling at very uneven prices. Bulk of the good and choice 210-220 pound butchers cleared at $10.25 to $10.50, the latter price the top. Desirable 220-250 pound weights at $10.10 to $10.40, a few head of heavies ranging downward to $9.75 and below. Desirable lots of 140-160 pound weights brought $9.75 to $10, but trade was uneven on these weights.

Good looking sows, broods, $8.75 to $9.30, thin kinds downward to $7.50 and good stags around $7.00 down. The trade on pigs was insufficient to basis reliable quotations.

Sheep—A very narrow demand made for exceedingly slow action on lambs. A few small lots of truck lambs sold during the morning at prices around 25c, or more lower than yesterday, but most of the supply was still in first hands. A few good and choice grade trucked-in lambs brought $9, but some of the better lambs were held above this price. Out of $5.50 and common lambs went at $5.50 to $5.75. Slaughter ewes were quotable around steady choice lightweight being upward to $4, plain ewes down to $1.50.

LIVE POULTRY

(Price includes commission) Chickens—Broilers, 16 1/2c; few higher; Leghorns, 15 1/2c; few higher; mixed colors, 15 1/2c; all kinds, poor and thin 14 1/2c; Leghorns, 12 1/2c; Ducks—Young Pukings, 12 1/2c; Muscovy, 13 1/2c; Puddle, 13 1/2c; Guinea—Young, 2 lbs. and over, 45c; smaller, 34 1/2c; Turkeys—Young hens and gobblers, 24c.

Composite picture of the battle, as outlined below:

Hard driving fascist armies laid siege to Madrid Thursday night and forced government forces back into the environs of the capital.

Retreating from one town after another before the precise advance of the mechanized columns, the government defenders dug in at Mostoles, 10 miles from the heart of the capital, and in Torrejon de la Calzada, 13 miles from the city.

Mostoles is on a highway running southwest from Madrid to Navalcarnero, captured by the insurgents.

Closing In Upon Madrid Torrejon is on a divergent highway cut of Madrid between the capital city and Illescas, also held by the fascists.

Fascist bands patrolled the slice of countryside between the two units, thus driving the ever-narrowing base of a triangle closer to Madrid.

With Madrid besieged, the fascist high command was reported to have ordered its warships to sink Russian vessels believed transporting arms to the fascist enemies.

Other European nations were notified of this order, the unfurnished reports said.

Can Prolong War Indefinitely The harassed government leaders, it was reported, had decided to move the seat of their capital to Barcelona where President Manuel Azana and three high cabinet officials have already set up offices.

With this development, government leaders said, the Madrid forces would be able to make the civil war drag on indefinitely, no matter what the fate of Madrid, in the hope that sympathetic nations such as Russia might eventually offer concrete military aid.

Roosevelt Will Deliver Address In Harrisburg

Harrisburg, Oct. 23. — President Roosevelt will speak in Harrisburg next Thursday morning, state democratic leaders announced here Thursday.

Plans are being made for a huge demonstration. A platform will be set up on the steps of the main capitol building, scene of Pennsylvania's gubernatorial inauguration ceremonies.

The President's visit here will be the first appearance of a chief executive of the nation at the Pennsylvania capitol in thirty years. Theodore Roosevelt dedicated the capitol building, October 4, 1906.

Aboard Roosevelt Train en route to Washington, Oct. 23.—With one final assertion that conditions "are better than they were four years ago," President Roosevelt ended Thursday night at Stamford, Connecticut, his stop-and-go automobile stumping trip through three New England states.

To his audience in Stamford, he paid tribute to Homer Cummings as a "great attorney general." It was Cummings' home town.

Then he said he wanted to thank the people of Stamford, and through them the people of Connecticut, Massachusetts and Rhode Island, for a "very warm reception," adding: "I am confident that the people are using intelligence in this election year, and I am not the least bit afraid of the result."

Why A BANK HAS CAPITAL

A bank in the ordinary sense, is a place where people can deposit their money for safekeeping. It provides a general circulating fund for the needs of trade. The bank is expected to lend a part of the funds for sound productive purposes. It may also invest in safe, readily cashable securities.

Why, then, are banks required by law to start with a certain specified capital? So as to provide a protection fund for depositors. The bank by having ample money of its own, demonstrates that it has strength and ability to make good any possible losses incurred through lending and investing.

The bank does not lend its capital but keeps it either on deposit, or where it will be instantly available.
